FOREWORD

As we sat idly watching the golden minutes of time tick steadily away to be lost only in a slight memory, we were not ready then to capture their true essence. The meanings of our various experiences left a faint impression — an impression that to some of us will be remembered vaguely; to others the impressions have been tucked in a small corner of our memory, common to all of us, precious and experienced to be lost as they were slipping from us. The things that have happened this year are now history — only to be recorded as another year of events at North Carolina College. To those who helped make this history it holds a deeper meaning, meaning that is hard to evaluate. We hope to evaluate the events and recapture their essence.

On the following pages we have attempted to recapture some of the most significant events so that the memories of the past can be revived — the memories that will remain long after we have said our fond farewell to N.C.C.

DR. JAMES EDWARD SHEPARD

November 3, 1875 - October 6, 1947

Founder and first president of North Carolina College at Durham

Dear Friends:

One of the finest things that has happened to us in the past two or three years has been the development of our concern for the problems of our fellow students, especially their financial problems, and our willingness to exert ourselves as a group in order to help those who are in need of financial assistance.

This development is characterized by a kind of continuity which is inherent in the way of life that we cherish. Our concern for the financial problems of our classmates and friends develops into a concern for other problems which they surely have. This concern for their total well being leads us on to a concern for the welfare of others who live in our community, in our cities, in our nation, and in our world whose problems must be solved if we and they are to enjoy good government, security, and peace.

I am glad that members of our present senior class have had the opportunity to participate in this development here on our campus. It may well be that they will realize completely in life what we have begun here in a small way. At least, this is the hope that we cherish for them.

Sincerely yours,

A. ELDER.

Dedication

In these times when college athletics are being de-emphasized, North Carolina College has continuously reaped the fruits of championship teams in intercollegiate sports.

Throughout the years the men of the Maroon and Gray have exemplified the precepts of true Eagles by their sportsmanship and competitive spirit to win. Since it has become almost traditional for North Carolina College's teams to excel, these teams have been taken for granted and championships expected. Yet each has had to work independently to uphold the high standards set forth in the preceding years.

As they celebrate their second consecutive championship in the two major sports of football and basketball, we dedicate to these athletes, their coaches and their loyal supporters the 1955 EAGLE.

DEDICATED TO NORTH CAROLINA COLLEGE
DEAR OLD N. C. C.

Staff and FACULTY

We are at the threshold of life — the point at which we feel within ourselves that we have acquired an abundance of knowledge which extends from the depth and height of all known boundaries. However, the knowledge that we have is a very minute quantity when compared with that which is to be obtained. To us it burns with flames reaching out in all directions but to others who have acquired much more than we have been able to accumulate in our limited span, it smolders with the embers dying slowly with only a small trace left to remind others of what we have done. Consequently, there comes that crucial moment in our lives when those smoldering embers of knowledge need a small spark to set the fires burning fiercely with varying degrees of intensity within us. We need a small light of hope so that we might keep in the channel of knowledge that we have chosen. For some of us who are uncertain as to the channel to follow, we look for a guiding hand which will lead us in the direction of our interests and ambitions. Knowing that in our conquest for knowledge the final victory will be one long remembered and valiantly fought, we look toward someone who will help us in our plan of strategy to overcome all obstacles which will confront us. We are cognizant of the fact that we alone cannot successfully accomplish these feats. Therefore, we need someone who has traveled the same road and encountered the same problems. This task of offering a helping and guiding hand has been left to our faculty.

With years of experience and a treasure chest of knowledge to present to us, we believe that they can set the smoldering fires of knowledge burning and give a gleam of light when we need it most. The members of our faculty are aware of the task that has been placed before them. The task of carefully molding the lives and characters of the future leaders of our world. As a result, it cannot be done too hastily but it must be done gradually using the best tools and skills. The finishing touches must be given careful consideration so that the final product can be compared on an equal and unbiased basis with the other competitors. This year, as in previous years, the task has been accomplished by their undying devotion as educators, their unselfish interest in our academic welfare, and their efforts to help us drink from the overflowing fountain of knowledge. Although we may have various ways of showing our gratitude for your laborious efforts, we humbly say — "Thank you for all that you have done." Thank you — our beloved faculty.

When we become a part of North Carolina College four years ago, we realized that a great task was placed before us. This was the task of making ourselves worthy of being citizens of the North Carolina College community. As we sang the Alma Mater for the first time and pondered over the meaning of the words, "The sloping hills, the verdant green," we had no idea how these same words would leave a scar of love and devotion for our college for the great transformation which it has impressed upon our lives.

We have come along a road of knowledge scattered with rocks of challenges to be overcome by our own judgments. When we felt that the challenges were too great for us to face, a small but stern voice of pride was heard echoing the reassuring words that as Eagles, we must not falter but follow the path of those who have gone before.

As our last chapter is closed on our college career, we can glance back over our four years at North Carolina College and truthfully say we have benefited from all our experiences. We have been truthful to the traditions and ideals of our college and we have served the college in our best capacities. Nevertheless, when finis is written to our four years of sorrows and joys, triumphs and hardships, we believe that within our hearts we have the power to uphold and foster the beliefs and ideals that have been instilled in us here at "dear ole N.C.C."

One year, two years and now three years have quickly sifted through the sands of time for us. Each day, hour, minute and second has been a vital part of our lives at North Carolina College which can never be relived or recaptured no matter what we try to do. While these components of time ticked steadily away, we were not conscious of their significance. On numerous occasions some of us have attempted to shorten the time when our experiences did not come up to our expectations. Whenever we were able to capture the true meaning of the experiences that all juniors have looked forward to, we have wished for a machine which would enable us to turn the hands of time back just to recapture the thrill once more.

Realizing that our days at N.C.C. are few, we must not think of them as being entirely useless. Each minute will be valued as a precious gem and treasured as a priceless work of art. There are a million things that we will have to do before we can say as all true Eagles can say, "We have done our best." Since we know that "the moving hand writes and having writ moves on," we can only hope that the next year does not flee like a gust of wind only to give us a slight but lasting impression on our lives.

After having had a year in which to become accustomed to the many changes which a college life affords, we feel that we are now ready to "dig" deeper into the many resources of North Carolina College. A year's stay here has taught us that college has something to offer us, not because of the enjoyable "rail chats," the "bowl" romances and the other not too learned pastimes to which students are prey — but rather, in spite of these activities. Yes, we have really grown in a year. We are just beginning to realize that one must not be one-sided — neither too learned — nor too carefree — if he is to get a true liberal education.

1955 OFFICERS OF THE FRESHMAN CLASS

ALFRED RICHARDSON
President
DELORES FENNELL
Secretary

The step from high school senior to college freshman is a very big one. And no one can realize just how big the step is until he has made it. From the initial meeting with the green beanies to the glamor of a first "Greek" dance, the first year of college is a continuous flow of new experiences. Getting used to waiting in the dining hall line, the first day of classes, the thrill of having winning teams, the first visit to the library are just a few of the events which help us to realize what a "giant" step we have really taken.

HONOR SOCIETIES

Each year several of the top seniors are honored by being selected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. This honor, one of the highest available to undergraduates, was this year bestowed upon twenty seniors.

These students earned a cumulative "B" average and were leaders in numerous extra curricula activities.

Because of their excellent scholastic achievements, leadership abilities, and participation in extracurricula activities at N. C. C., these students have been elected to Who's Who and have received keys and certificates as tokens of the honor. Their names and biographies will appear in the Who's Who publication along with students from colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Perhaps the most select groups of organizations on our campus are the Honor Societies, WHO'S WHO and the four Honor Societies on our campus encompass some of the most outstanding students at our institution.

Inherent in the qualifications for membership in these societies are superior academic achievements. While at least a "B" average is required to enter all Honor Societies, certain Societies require a much higher cumulative average in the major field. Honor Societies also recognize and list leadership abilities, and active service to the school, as criteria for membership.

Members of these Honor Societies are to be congratulated for their noteworthy and distinguished achievement. These students represent the "cream of the crop," the best among students across the land.

Alpha Kappa Mu

At every institution there are those few students who maintain superior academic records. These students who have weathered the scholastic storms without faltering and who have continued to remain at the top of their classes are elected to the Alpha Kappa Mu Honor Society.

Alpha Kappa Mu National Honor Society was founded at Tennessee A. & I. in 1937, while the local chapter was organized in 1939. Though small in membership, the organization still maintains several projects in an academic area, one of which is a tutorial system for first year students.

Eligibility to membership is at least a junior class standing, and a scholastic average of 2.3.

Beta Kappa Chi

Those of us who have frequented the science building have seen certain students busily engaged in working problems, solving equations, and performing experiments in the various laboratories. These are our future scientists—the scholastic men and women who study about the universe and why it goes round and round. In their own cosmos they are expounding on hypothesis, theories and laws to better enable them to understand life and death.

Science scholars so consecrated to their work who maintain superior academic achievements are elected to the Beta Kappa Chi National Scientific Honorary Society.

Founded at Lincoln University, January 31, 1923, Beta Kappa Chi aimed at bringing together the scholars of the natural sciences. Since 1941 when a chapter of Beta Kappa Chi was established at N. C. C. the membership has steadily increased. The members come together several times each year to discuss topics relating to the sciences.

ORGANIZATIONS

As in any community, one finds many persons of varying talents, interests, and abilities. Likewise is the North Carolina College community, and to help satisfy the thirsts of these persons, organizations and clubs are established, each with a specific purpose and other general sidelights. The overall purposes are found to include the athletics, social, cultural, educational and religious life of our student body.

While all provide some form of leadership training, they also provide a more centralized field of interest such as the religious organizations consisting of the YWCA, the YMCA, and the Baptist Student Union which offer the student an opportunity to share in the ideals of Christian brotherhood.

Experience in public relations, publishings, writing, advertising and editing may be obtained through "on the job" learning while working with the student publications, the ECHO and the EAGLE. "Journalism at work" might well serve as the motto of these campus-wide organizations.

Those talented in the field of music will find an outlet for their energies in the choir and the band. These organizations supply channels of expression both individually or with others of like interests as they display their wares to the student body several times during the school year.

A position in the student government cabinet or in the student congress may well be your first step into a future in politics. Everyone can never become president of the student government but each can support that person entrusted with the position.

Still another form of government exists in which more persons may take part. This is in the form of dormitory councils, and assembly steering committees. Leadership activities are desired by all but many show greater proficiency in following others as we move on in our program of "student self-direction."

Desiring to learn more about your chosen field of study, you will possibly desire membership in one of the clubs open to majors and minors in a particular field which help extend even more knowledge and greater enjoyment to your desired life's work. Such is the operation of the Commercial, the Home Economics, the Mathematics and Social Science Clubs.

Many channels are open to self-expression through membership in clubs such as the Thespians, the Art Guild, the Photography or Dance Clubs. Of great interest here are the opening of new channels and the explanation and examination of older patterns which will help each member to better enjoy his chosen hobby and possibly persuade through club inspiration the continuation to a professional status.

The athletic needs of the students are not entirely met by our intercollegiate athletic teams but are supplemented by the WAA, the Sharks, and the intramural activities. The Women's Athletic Association provides for the coeds an opportunity to participate and enjoy wholesome competition in various sports. The Sharks as the name suggests, is an organization for those who desire the companionship of other "fish" and are interested in the finer points of the "gainer" or the "breast stroke."

When the girls assembled in the Senior Dormitory in September 1954, they were heartily welcomed by the House Directress, Mrs. Hazel McCree, and the House Council President, Alice Page. This year was to be more significant than ever, for it would be the last time that the girls would live together as one big, happy family. The House Council planned many activities which left indelible impressions in the girls' minds. Among these were the numerous discussions on The Family, Home, Living, Courtship and Marriage. The beautiful Winter Wonderland Formal at the Algonquin Club; the unforgettable Concert presented by the accomplished artist Marion McCree, the daughter of our own House Directress; and lastly, the lovely pastel Spring Ball which was held beneath a background of spring flowers and spraying rainbow-colored fountains. These and other activities so well planned by the House Council of the Senior Dormitory will never be forgotten by the girls who resided within its walls.

The Senior Dormitory House Council

Rush Hall House Council

The atmosphere of dormitory life is one that is mingled with the sounds of radios, voices echoing from each room as a group congregates to elaborate on the various things in their life, and the formation of lasting friendships as the lives of young women inter-mingle. There must be a small group to supervise the welfare of these young women so there can be harmonious living. The house council, chosen from the residents of Rush Hall, has been given this task—the task of incorporating the ideas, and ideals of these young women so that they might reap all the benefits of dormitory life.

If we were to take a glance over our Sophomore year at NCC, we probably could sight many delightful experiences which we might note in our minds. Let us take just a few events of which we might consider important.

Our House Directress, Mrs. Montgomery, welcomed us to McLean Dorm after we had adjusted and situated ourselves. The program was soon set to action for 1954-55 with a travelogue by Mrs. Elder, who just returned from her trip to Bermuda. Mrs. Elder spoke with such pictorial flavor that many of her listeners felt they had been with her on some of the wonderful experiences that she and Dr. Elder had enjoyed.

Since the air is filled with such words as segregation and integration, the young women of McLean enjoyed a panel discussion by some of their classmates and faculty members to that effect. Later in the year, McLean Dormitory had its spring formal and ended the school year with an outdoor picnic in front of the dormitory.

Annie

Dormitory Council

As residents of Annie Day Shepard Dormitory, the young women have the problem of adjusting themselves to living together in a new and somewhat strange environment. The house council, experiencing for the first time the task of directing the dormitory life of various individuals, finds itself busy attempting to iron out the problems that confront them—problems ranging from the planning of social affairs to the preparation for the Christmas Sing in addition to the giving of advice concerning personal problems. Thus, as representatives of the dormitory, these ladies "pay" their first installment toward a future of self direction in the North Carolina College community.

The activities of the Men's Assembly are planned by the Men's Assembly Steering Committee which has a membership of fifteen persons: three off-campus, three freshmen, three sophomores, three juniors and three seniors.

The Men's Assembly Steering Committee works with the men students' personnel staff in planning and promoting the program for each assembly and such major undertakings as the Annual Fathers Weekend and the Annual fun-raising project for scholarship fund of the college.

Functions of the committee provide opportunities for the students to get training and experiences in leadership. The members of the committee assume the responsibility of being on the alert for discovering problems among the men that ought to be considered by the men students' personnel staff and the assembly.

Men's Assembly Steering Committee

The Men's Dormitory Council

The Men's Dormitory Council is designed to formulate and direct the social and business activities of the largest dormitory on the campus.

The Men's Dormitory Council, the advisory board to the Dean of Men, consists of eight students, the Residence Director, the Assistant Dean of Men, the Dean of Men and appointed students. Two students are elected from each of the four undergraduate classes residing in the dormitory.

The members of the council work with the men students' personnel staff in matters pertaining to the welfare and training of the men students. During previous years, the council has sponsored several worthwhile projects benefiting the North Carolina College community.

Honoring Dr. Howard J. Clidley on his annual visit, having the council banquet, and planning and entering a float in the Homecoming Parade were a few of the projects carried out by the council during the past school year.

The function of the Off-Campus Women's Council is to bring the programs and activities of the women students who do not live on the campus into closer harmony with the campus women and the campus activities. With the assistance of an Off-Campus Counselor, Mrs. Nesbitt, the council undertakes to provide supervised counseling to meet the social needs of the Off-Campus Women, and to create a feeling of belonging within them.

The council encourages planned social activities such as formal and informal parties and dances. It also undertakes projects to help develop the Off-Campus Women culturally. This may be in the form of teas, symposiums, panel discussions and receptions. The council serves as a link in the chain of friendship which binds the young women of North Carolina College into one family.

The Off-Campus Women's Council

The Women's Steering Committee

The Women's Steering Committee is composed of nine members (two representatives from each class and a senior-at-large) and acts as the planning body of the women's assembly at NCC. Serving as the liaison between the office of the Dean of Women and the women students in general, this committee assumes the responsibility of interpreting and conveying the thoughts, suggestions and opinions of the Dean to the students, and performing the same duty for the students to the dean.

The problem of receiving and relaying correspondence to the Women's Assembly is also a responsibility of the Steering Committee, and, more specifically, of the president who is elected each year from the nine representatives on the committee. The committee formulates plans and proposals for programs and projects and presents them to the Women's Assembly for approval or disapproval. Three of the traditional projects of the Women's Assembly are the Co-Ed Week-end, Mother-Daughter Week-end, and the Christmas Project for Kinston.

Senior Counselors

In each class, there are a few people, who during their stay, distinguish themselves. Each year several of the outstanding senior coeds are elected to serve as Senior Counselors to the Freshmen young women of Annie Day Shepard Dormitory. Though it comes as a tribute, the beginning of the school year brings many problems of adjustment to the Freshmen young women which sometimes makes the privilege seem a "job." Yet, later in the year as friendships are made, problems solved, the college spirit absorbed and a general adjustment having taken place, the Senior Counselors again find themselves with a position of pride and prestige.

THE STUDENT WELFARE COMMITTEE

The Student Welfare Committee

The student welfare committee is composed of ten faculty members and five students. It was organized at a time of transition between a system of strict supervision of student activities and a program of self-direction for the students both in social and disciplinary matters. The student welfare committee works in conjunction with the Dean of Women, Dean of Men, the student government, and the Pan-Hellenic Council. If a problem should arise which cannot be solved by the officials of the aforementioned organizations, the student welfare committee offers its assistance.

In connection with disciplinary action, the accused student has the right to appear before the committee to hear the charges and evidence against him, to make whatever statements he desires, and to bring witnesses and other persons to speak in his defense. Through this channel, it is hoped that the students will realize that no one person is responsible for disciplinary action, but that each misdemeanor and its circumstances are weighed carefully on the scale of justice before the verdict is decided upon, and the sentence, if there be one, is passed.

The Men's Dormitory Government

Under the leadership of its founder and first president, Henry Fair, the men's dormitory government attempts to provide opportunities for the students living in the dormitory, and to promote self-direction in group living.

All men living in the dormitory work together in the governmental activities in order to provide leadership in the dormitory government, to vote in the election of the president of the government, and to formulate policies, procedures and regulations to govern the men residing in the dormitory. Throughout the year the government plan social, recreational, and cultural activities for the men.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Future Teachers of America

All students who aspire to become teachers are encouraged to join the campus chapter of Future Teachers of America.

In its first year of existence, the Future Teachers worked as a unit to better understand the principles and problems of the teaching profession.

The prospective teachers are cognizant of the increasing complexities of modern education, and try to better equip themselves for the duties of tomorrow when they will teach the nation's youth.

The Student Government

"We, the students of North Carolina College at Durham, in order to promote training in self-direction, and practice in self-imposed responsibility, do ordain and establish this Constitution of the North Carolina College Student Government."

The Student Congress is the student legislative governing body at North Carolina College. As the voice of the students, its members speak out for the freedom to enjoy the rights and privileges which have been granted to the students in order that they may wholly enjoy the Democratic atmosphere which exists within the gates of NCC.

Ernest "Pete" Ward, president of the student government as he makes last minute preparation before meeting his cabinet.

The Student Government

The Student Congress, an unicameral body, is composed of 54 representatives, 13 from each class. At bimonthly meetings, the members act upon recommendations which may become the "laws" of the campus and improve Student Relationships. It is through this real life experience that the students have the chance to put their knowledge of Politics and Parliamentary Procedures into action.

Under the able leadership of: William Isler, Speaker of the Congress; Sherman Perry, Speaker Pro-Tem; Nancy Lawhorn, Clerk of the Congress; the congress this year has covered much ground leading to a more democratic and more livable NCC.

YWCA

A group of active coeds, bound together by their common interest in civic and religious activities and projects, constitute the Y.W.C.A. The civic activities include a vesper program, panel discussions, and bible study classes which develop a sense of brotherhood by enjoying studies and fun alike and together. Projects conducted by the Y.W.C.A. during the past year included aid to the United Fund, and food baskets for the needy on Thanksgiving which means to each member much enjoyment such as that had while canvassing the neighborhood for the constituents of the baskets.

To be a member of the Y.W.C.A. means participation in all these activities. Of course, they have refreshments, and the Y.W.C.A. banquet crowns the activities of the year. The outstanding Y.W.C.A. member of the year is lauded at the God Supper by the Dean of Women.

YMCA

Seeking to provide for a richer and fuller campus life, the Y.M.C.A. strives, through service, co-operation, leadership, and christian character, to develop among the men a broader concept of christian thinking and christian living.

Believing in their creed, "Together we stand and together we live, with confidence we can accomplish, with love and co-operation we can build a strong nation," the men of the "Y" set out to learn through service, to live by co-operating among themselves, and to grow while working with the Young Men's Christian Association.

Officers of the Y.M.C.A. for the 1954-55 school year were: president, Theodore Cherry; vice-president, Thomas Moore; secretary, Lawrence Hampton; assistant secretary, Roger Watson; treasurer, Kelly Anderson; Chaplain, Charles Smith; sergeant-at-arms, Robert Jones; Parliamentarian, James McLean; advisors, Rev. P. N. Williams and Mr. Alston.

The Baptist Student Union

In order to foster better relations among students at NCC, the Baptist Student Union strives to promote training toward perfecting the ideals of christianity. The organization invites students of not only the Baptist faith, but encourages students of all denominations to attend its meetings and to participate in all of its activities.

By attending its meetings and participating in its activities, students get a chance to join in christian fellowship with others, thereby providing for a much richer campus life.

N. A. A. C. P.

The Durham Inter-Collegiate Chapter of the N.A.A.C.P. is a relatively young, but enthusiastic as well as ambitious organization. This group is kept busy on N.A.A.C.P. projects, surveys, and the always open membership drive. The projects include observance of Negro History Week, Brotherhood Sunday, and the presentation of Vesper programs. The N.A.A.C.P. also strives to bring to the college community cultural programs which include movies, speakers, and panel discussions on topics of interest in the nation today.

This year, Mr. Herbert L. Wright, National Youth Secretary of the N.A.A.C.P., on a visit to this school talked to the students about new fields that are opening to Negroes, especially in foreign aid.

The Commercial Club

Although most of us do not understand the Stenographic Characters, the Dictaphone, the Monroe Adding Calculator, or even the Typewriter, there are many students who are quite familiar with these machines and the principles of Commerce. These, the members of the Commercial Club, hold as their objectives: the encouragement of interest in Commercial Education, the investigation of new opportunities in the field of Business, and the preparation of themselves today to be the future Stenographers, Typists, Accountants, and Business Leaders of tomorrow. Each year the Commercial Club sponsors "Commerce Day" for the students in many of the state high schools, who are invited to attend, and to participate in the activities of the Commerce Department. These students are also given the opportunity to use and observe the various machines and facilities which our Commercial Department has to offer.

The Cooley-Winchell Home Economics Club

"Keeping the college women aware of the types of clothing which they should wear in order to pin point their personalities" is one of the main objectives of the members of the Cooley-Winchell Home Economics Club.

Home economics majors and minors are eligible for membership in the club. These members attempt to show the latest in fashions, the newest in styles, and the neatness in dress. Included in their club activities is the making of stuffed animals, shoe bags, utility kits, and other useful articles.

Each year the home economics club co-operates with the Home Economics Department in holding the annual Home Economics Day, at which time high school girls come to NCC from all sections of the state to participate in the activities of the day.

The Social Science Club

When passing by the Seminar room in the Classroom Building, one would possibly see a group of determined young students glancing at newspapers and magazines and busily engaged in major issues of international importance. This group is the Social Science Club, which has as its primary objectives to enlighten its members on current events, and to improve human relationships. It strives to conduct its meetings in a democratic manner, and to encourage its members to be open minded at all times. The students express their opinions, beliefs, and ideas freely, and try to find solutions to the many problems which face us today. All of them realize that the youth of today must take an even greater interest in national affairs, for the fate of the nation rests upon the shoulders of the men and women of tomorrow who must be able to meet new situations, and to act democratically in order to live in our complex society.

U. N. E. S. C. O.

The United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization is one of the specialized agencies of the United Nations organized to contribute to peace and security by promoting collaboration among the nations through education, science, and culture.

U.N.E.S.C.O. is a relatively new organization on this campus, having being organized only last year. The members of the local chapter take pride in their small way of creating peace and unity among the nations of the world.

Thespian Club

Being a member of the Thespian Club means many things: helping in the initiation of newcomers, getting an insight on the makeup for the stage and aiding in making costumes and scenery for the productions of the club during the year.

Included in it's past performances are such plays as "Hamlet," "Antigone," and "Medea." The latter play having been produced this year. Although several of the members of the Thespian Club are aspiring actors and actresses who are anticipating higher study, this is not a requirement for membership. The sole requirement for membership is interest in any phase of dramatic activities. It's a pleasure to be a Thespian. You may hear the mambo, Early American Samba, rumba or Greek music pouring from the Fine Arts Building, for a minute you might think it is the dance group but take a closer look and you will see they aren't wearing leatods and they do have on shoes. This is the background music for another production by the Thespians of N.C.C.

The Art Guild

The Art Guild, composed largely of members of the Art Department is designed to stimulate new interests, to re-activate appreciation for the "Old Masters" and to generally provide new and varied ideas for those interested in art. To put these new and old ideas to work is one of the main topics of each meeting.

Many of the members will not become famous or even well known, but all enjoy displaying and improving upon their God-given talents. Each year, members of the Art Guild exhibit paintings and many bring back prizes to attest to their unique ability.

Campus Echo

When going into the Shepard Library we often hear a murmur of noise coming from the Campus Echo office. What goes on in that buzzing room? It's usually the conglomeration of reporters seeking advice on stories past due—typists pecking away at the keys trying to meet a dead line—another typist seeking aid in translating sport articles. Yes, it's a frantic week when the Echo staffers are at work with press time past due.

The Campus Echo has long been termed "the voice of the students," for this monthly newspaper is published by and for the students. It carries news relating to all spheres of our growing but still young institution. Its editorial pages mirror reflections not only of our daily routines at the campus, but reflections of National and International scope that we as leaders of tomorrow must acknowledge.

The book reviews, cartoons, letters to the editors, sports coverage, pictures, and the news itself all go to make the students of NCC proud of the paper.

The Veterans Club

The Veterans Club is composed of men and women who have served their country well in time of war and have returned to serve NCC in time of peace. They have proven themselves good citizens of the North Carolina Community by their interests in activities for its benefit and improvement. One of these activities was their participation in the half-time ceremonies of the football games with their snappy drill team. Any campus would be happy to have these individuals in their fold.

The Choir

Under the direction of Mr. Samuel W. Hill, the eighty-five voice choir again came through with the great performances for which it has become famous. The choir was minus some of its veterans of last year; nevertheless, supported by many new voices of superior quality, the choir was able to maintain its position as one of the best choirs in collegiate circles.

A very busy group, the choir began working early with a November engagement in Fort Bragg, North Carolina. From this beginning, the choir visited most of the important cities on the eastern coast. No matter where they sang, the choir was always well received, for their performances were always great by collegiate standards and at times even by professional standards.

The Band

Under the leadership of Mr. W. E. Howard, the North Carolina College band had a very full and successful year.

In addition to its many note-worthy performances during the half-times of the home football games and the National Classic, the band brought praise to the maroon and gray by appearing in several parades.

With a program filled with original works and arrangements by Mr. Howard, the annual concert in B. N. Duke Auditorium was termed "a grand success."

Through the calibre of its performances it is clearly evident that the band members spent long hours practicing in order to well represent NCC.

If you present your idea and it is useful, good, and has merit, many will join you in supporting it. And if, later, others should present their principles, many will join them, each according to his or her choice. So it goes on the campuses of many institutions of higher learning. Many students each year, believing in certain principles and ideals, join with others of similar thinking and become members of various sororities and fraternities.

GREEKS

The Pan-Hellenic Council

The Pan-Hellenic Council, organized on the campus of North Carolina College in 1947, has done much to foster co-operation and fellowship between the fraternities and sororities of this college. This year, under the leadership of President Johnny Wooten (ΩΨΦΠ), it has stretched a friendly hand to the NCC community on many occasions. Understanding the oft used phrase "Together we stand, divided we fall," the members of the council always stand ready to do good for a fellow Greek be he Alpha, Kappa or Que, or be she AKA, Delta or Sigma. It is with this spirit that the "Greeks" of the NCC community continue on their way to a better tomorrow.

Greeks

"Potential Greeks" may choose their associates and likewise their organization with only one main stipulation, that of sex. For the coeds of NCC, a choice of one of three sororities may be made, each believing in certain basic "truths" which, though different, are very similar. They are the Alpha Kappa Alpha, the Delta Sigma Theta and the Sigma Gamma Rho Sororities. The men likewise must make a decision and may strive to become a "brother" of the Alpha Phi Alpha, the Kappa Alpha Psi or the Omega Psi Phi Fraternities.

But just what is this "Greeklom?" It is a land of similar believers—believers in the rights of man, brotherhood and sisterhood, high character and moral standards and high scholastic attainments. It is also a land which, though small on our campus, encompasses hundreds of thousands over the nation.

During the year many worthy projects are jointly carried out in co-operation with the Pan-Hellenic Council. Individually outstanding projects of social, cultural and educational value are led by one or another of the sororities of "frats." Examples of this is the never ending fight to boost school spirit, the donations to charity, the scholarships and loans sponsored for worthy students, the bringing to our campus of noted personages and the presentation of the "talented" of our faculty.

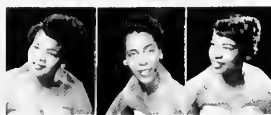

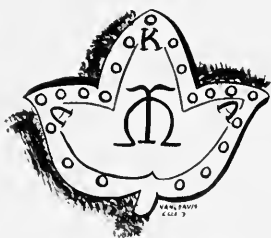

Social Greek letter organizations, as the sororities and fraternities are collectively known, do contribute their share to the social life here, for during the spring quarter banquets and dances are given which seem to crown a year of hard work with "one" last fling at the gaities which inevitably must rise in a college career.

Brother or soror or just plain Eagle, each will recall in the future some of their experiences with the Greeks of NCC. It may be to laugh at the antics of the poor probates on line, or to reminisce as a fraternity serenaded or to remember your first or your last Greek dance. Your thoughts, individual as they must be, will belong to you but in common with others they will be happy as you once more survey that land of "Greeklom" in which the ever proud "Greeks" of North Carolina College did dwell.

Alpha Chi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority

These are the women of Alpha Kappa Alpha . . . who live, not only in fellowship with each other but who through the perpetuation of meritorious activities and cultural practices, live in fellowship with all whom they meet. Women of leadership and superior ability, women of talent and outstanding achievement, women whose poise and character bespeaks their clean prospective, are members of this first and great sorority. And where ever AKA women congregate, the influence of their incomparable personalities is felt and long remembered.

Ivy Leaf Club

The Ivy Leaf Club is a group of conscientious young women aspiring to reach the status of AKA sorors. They exhibit this aspiration in a variety of ways. Members maintain high scholastic standings, actively participate in extra-curricular activities, and exhibit rare genius in the execution of civic projects. The Ivy Leaf Club undertakes certain duties and responsibilities in which the members exemplify the forementioned characteristics.

The members of the club enjoy working together as well as socializing with one another. Although working with the Ivy Leaf Club is so much fun that it can hardly be distinguished from socializing, the wonderful results received could only come through laborious planning and the organized execution of those plans.

The utilitarian theory—"the greatest happiness for the greatest number of people"—taken socially was the background philosophy in planning the biggest event of the year for the Ivy Leaf Club, the IVY BAZAAR.

The Beta Omicron Chapter of the Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, though small in number, has its share of charming coeds as members. The sorority, founded in 1922, in Indianapolis, Ind., is one of the three on the campus of N. C. College. The colors, yellow and blue, belong to a local membership of eight.

Aurora Club

As pledges of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, these young coeds are earnestly striving to become a part of the spirit that reigns in all sororities—the spirit of sisterhood. Various activities are sponsored during the year that foster and promote the ideals that are upheld by them as Auroras.

The Pyramid Club

The Pyramid Club serves as the pledge club for the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. Taking its name from the shape of the Greek letter "Delta," the club's members all desire to one day be called by the coveted title of "A Delta Girl." During the year, these coeds sponsor several campus-wide activities which stir interest among the student body.

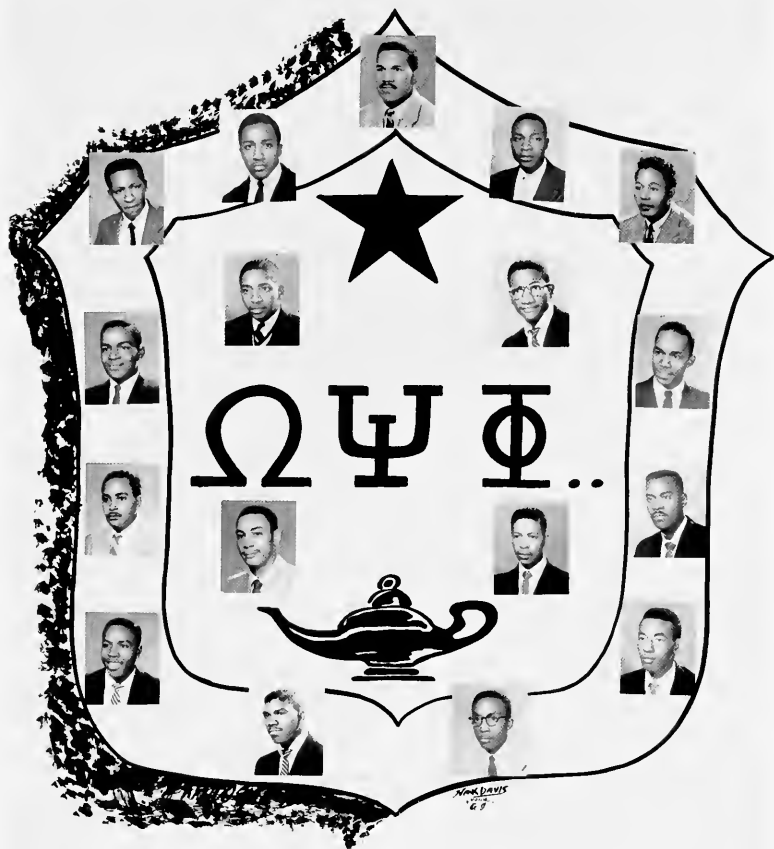

Brains, beauty and poise are all ingredients which go into the coeds who during their stay in the Pyramid Club "slowly" change into the charming "Delta Girls" of tomorrow.

Lampodas Club

The Lampodas Club, shown with its president holding high the "lamp" which lights the way to Omegaland, is a group of men who have brothers with a similiar desire everywhere men reside. The "Lamps" are inspired during the year to promote several affairs of the campus. CIAA Football Champs—1954

Double Crown Highlights Grid Season

CHUCK WOMACK

The 1954 North Carolina College Eagles were named the CIAA CHAMPIONS for the second consecutive year. But the Crown that the EAGLES were more proud of resulted from having been the NATIONAL NEGRO CHAMPIONS for the same campaign. Displaying brute force, and backs of amazing rapidity the charges of Coach Herman H. Riddick won seven games, lost one and tied one, in their climb to the top of Negro Football.

Sixty men reported to Coach Riddick on September 2, 1954 to hear the Veteran Coach, then starting his ninth year at the helm of the grid Eagles, tell them what was expected. He told them of the achievements of his 1953 team, but reminded them that 1953 was 365 days ago, hence ancient history. "What we have here is this year's team, and I expect to see you perform as such."

They performed as they wiped off their first two opponents with a total of 53 points while holding them scoreless.

The St. Augustine Falcons went down by the score of 25-0 while the Pirates of Hampton Institute succumbed to the mighty Eagles at 31-0. But the holiday almost ended there, as the Eagles went up against more formidable opposition. The Virginia State Trojans, winners over the Eagles for three straight years, intended to upset the powerful grid machine, and went about the task on October 16. For an entire half the battle between the Eagles and the Trojans raged, and suddenly in the third quarter, Clint Freeman of Va. State flipped a pass to teammate Nash and the Eagles trailed for the first time in six games. With Albert Montgomery going 60 minutes in the quarterback seat, the Eagles caught fire and before the embers died the proud Trojans had been handcuffed and lost 12-6. The following week saw the Eagles again trailing, but Co-Captains Jerome (Little Willie) Evans, and Amos Thornton had ideas of their own. On successive plays these senior "mighty mites" combined efforts to amass a total of 66 yards and a TD to tie powerful Maryland State.

The holiday really did end the following week as the Tigers of Tennessee State College dealt the spirited Eagles their first defeat of the 1954 season. The charges of Tennessee Coach Henry A. Kean won their 25th game over a three year period by dealing the Eagles a 13-3 defeat.

It was after the Tennessee game of 1953 that the Eagles went haywire and 1954 was no exception. It was Johnson C. Smith for the second straight year on whom the Eagles displayed a savage fury. The Eagles whipped the Golden Bulls 47-7 in 1953 after the Tennessee State affair and 38-6 in 1954 after encountering the Tigers. J. C. Smith should feel lucky for on the following Saturday, the yellow jackets of West Virginia State College were downed to the tune of 40-12. Bad news hit the Eagle camp after this game. While readying for the Aggies of A&T College, Evans sustained a broken collarbone, which shelved him for the remainder of the season. Whether he would be missed was purely a matter of speculation. After all, he was only the team's leading ground gainer with an incredible mark of 3.3 yard per carry.

Whether his absence was felt or not, got support in the affirmative when on Thanksgiving Day—the A & T Aggies would have won over the Eagles 6-0 except for some excellent quarterbacking by Freshman Ed Hudson. With two minutes remaining, Hudson pitched three straight passes (the last for a T.D.) and Deral Webster converted to give the "Riddickmen" a 7-6 victory over the invaders. This win gave the Eagles the CIAA Championship and the right to represent the conference in the National Negro Championship against the Tennessee State Tigers who then owned a record of 27 straight victories. But it wasn't the Tigers' Day. With about 2,500 Durhamites in the stands, the Eagles combined savage line plays with expert ball handling and carrying to down the Tigers. This defeat broke a record unheard of in Negro Football since Morgan State went 54 games from 1932 to 1933 without losing a game.

The last football game of each year finds a group of warriors who due to rules and regulations must also call it their last collegiate game. For some of these men, the last game is a welcome relief, for others, the feeling is of another nature. Football is a full time business with them, and some have been successful enough to sign on the dotted line in the "play for pay" end of the game. Among these lucky chaps is the one-two punch, halfbacks and Co-Captains Jerome Evans and Amos Thornton. It seems that the Hamilton Bearcats of the Canadian League obtained the services of these two highly touted dynamos.

The records show that Thornton has been the Eagles' most valuable player with a possible exception of Carl Galbreath who is the most heralded of NCC football greats of all times. Thornton was selected to the CIAA first team for three years, was elected to Pittsburg Courier's ALL AMERICAN FIRST TEAM for two seasons, and was named on the  Afro ALL AMERICAN team twice.

Jerome, a Goldsboro Ex-GI, was voted All-European while serving with the U. S. Forces in Germany in 1947. As an NCC Freshman, he was voted the outstanding rookie on the team and also the team's best defensive player. His Sophomore year also saw him win the team's most outstanding defensive title. As a Junior, and the return to the one platoon system, Evans became the team's best offensive back carrying the ball 86 times for an average of 4.3 yards per try. This season, although shelved for two games, he was named to the All-CIAA first team.

The third member of the "play for pay" aspirants is big, rough and tough Claude Mayfield, a 6 feet, 2 inches, 240 pound tackle. This Suffolk, Virginia lad should have no trouble crashing into the ranks of the "Bearcat" line. He was voted to the All-CIAA team for 1954.

Then, there are always boys who don't care for any more of football life. They would rather sit in the stands and cheer the players on. First among them is such a player as Charley Floyd, the "Wilson Flash," who has held down a starting end position for three seasons. Moreover, he has been a front line reserve for Coach Floyd Brown's Cagers. Another important cog who played his last game, was the highly regarded Francis McGhee. Known as "The Horse," this Alexandria, Virginia guard came to North Carolina College in 1943 and immediately established himself as a front line reserve. His Sophomore year saw him take over a first line post and the Korean War proved the only thing that was able to move him. Selected as an honorable mention player in past seasons, the 205 pounds was considered one of the smartest linemen of his day. Mention here must also go to Otto "Lil' Beaver" Harvey, the team's most valuable player. Harvey, a player's player, trained hard, and played clean. He diagnosed plays as well as, or better than any member of the club and thus led in pass interceptions. His performance won for him "All-American honors."

Next we have a victim of injuries, Durham's Henry King this season who was never up to par. At the beginning of the season, he was the starting end, and continued at that post until his legs caved in. A former halfback, "Hank" will best be remembered for his winning T. D. catch over West Virginia State in 1953. This catch put NCC in contention for the CIAA crown which they won on Thanksgiving Day of that year.

Another end is Linwood "Tricky Joe" Jones, the team's most popular member. Tricky Joe has always been a crowd pleaser and except for time lost due to injuries, he was always the game's first substitute.

Cornelius Eason, former High School backfield mate of All-American Thornton, has been plagued with injuries during his entire stay in the Eagle's fold. "Teeny," as he is called, was the most heralded of all rookies when he reported to the Eagle camp in 1951 but a cracked knee forced this (the fastest) member of the team to the sidelines and reserve duty.

Zander A. Dockery, a 170 pound steel legged halfback from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, like Eason, is a victim of the injured leg. Zan, after a stint with the U. S. Army, was to be counted on for much of the line cracking duty, but his thigh muscles folded and his department remained the point after touchdown in which he did remarkably well.

The last senior member of the squad is 6 feet, 2 inches, 180 pound end James Courtney, a trackster by trade. Courtney was adept at snagging passes and runners en-route to the goal line.

We were glad to have the above mentioned gentlemen in the Eagle Fold along with the other spirited fellows. Other greats who will return are: Mathew Boone, Robert Adams, Jim Forbes, Billy Adams, Albert Montgomery, Thomas Caldwell, Leon Holley, Ross Hines, Deral Webster, John Roberts, Ed Hudson, Henry Lewis, George Alexander, James Crawford, Oscar Turner, and the mighty John Baker. To them and the entire squad we say good luck for '55. A challenge is hereby presented to the returnees for 1955 will round out a decade for Coach Riddick at the local institution. His greatest gift, could only be in the form of a great year, and a repeat championship performance. The Eagle Staff would like to say "thanks again" for the opportunity of having been around to see the greatest Eagle team ever.

CIAA Basketball Champs—1954-55

Basketballers Win Second Conference Title

The story of NCC Basketball again for the third straight year is the story of its youthful coach, Floyd Brown. Three years Brown has spent at the helm of the Eagles, but listen to how and where he has guided them. In 1952-53, his first year cracking the whip, Brown led the Eagles to a 15-4 conference record and a 17-7 overall.

That year saw the locals finish second in the conference, and get an invitation to compete in the NAIA district play-off at Nashville Tennessee where his court Eagles were defeated in the first round by Tennessee State 98-94. This marked the first time that Negro Colleges received invitations to the meet. 1953-54 saw Brown take a patched up outfit and win a surprising 23 games while losing only 5. Again they were invited to the NIAA in Nashville, and advanced to the final round, only to be eliminated 79-59 by the same Tennessee State Tigers. After that final game Bennie Dix, George Greene and Al-American Charles (Tex) Harrison graduated. "Sad Sam" Jones went to the Army and James Sligh was lost via the ineligible route. So Brown was to have worries for 1954-55. He won his first game of the season over the Virginia State Trojans (76-60) then lost two straight, first to the Hawks of Maryland State (76-65) and later to Savannah State (74-70).

Regaining their winning ways, the Eagles dropped Bluefield State (64-55) and St. Augustine's College (68-62). It was after the St. Aug. encounter that Brown remarked that the "boys seemed to be working into shape." The Holiday Festivals in Greensboro saw them get two setbacks while winning one game over the Teachers of Fayetteville State (63-58). The Winston-Salem Teachers College "Rams" served them their first defeat by the score of 64-58 while Bethune Cookman of Daytona Beach, Florida dished them a 74-65 setback.

After the holidays, the Eagles returned to the court and picked up six games in a row downing Hampton Institute, Johnson C. Smith, St. Augustine, Winston-Salem, Shaw University and Virginia State College before they ran into the Garrett led Morgan State "Bears" and a resounding 104-79 thrashing. The 104 points were the highest ever scored against an NCC quint, and dropped them back to third place exactly 24 hours after they had taken over the second spot in the conference race. Then came the stretch and victories over A & T

64-52, Winston-Salem 76-72, Maryland 77-74, Hampton 74-59, West Virginia State 86-72, Morgan 89-73, Smith 71-70, A & T 64-60 (thanks to Dudley), West Virginia State 74-70, and finally over Shaw University Bears 74-46. Thus season's play ended and the NCC Eagles had completed a 19-2 conference record, and a 20-5 overall season record.

From last year's team he had Captain Charles Barrick, and Harvey Heartley at guard, Rudy Dudley and Karl Bell at forward, with Big Charley Badger at center. Of this starting five all were seniors except Badger, a sophomore. Barrick and Heartley finished the previous season as starters. Badger as a valuable reserve, with Dudley and Bell failing to make the squad during the 53-54 Tourney. The season progressed and the pace wore on. John Keels, a 6' 4" Freshman from Tarrytown, New York, who had been used chiefly as a reserve started showing rare form and was inserted into the starting lineup replacing Bell, as part of Brown's scheme of finding a workable unit. His height proved valuable and his 384 points were just what the doctor had ordered.

But whence cometh this Rudy Dudley? Well, Dudley is one of those rare players that comes upon the scene when a campus is loaded with skyscrapers. His 5' 9" are apt to be overlooked when a coach begins looking for a player. However, Dudley was retained because he had a little something extra, a little more drive than the average player, a cooler head under fire, and an uncanny knack of intercepting passes and dribbles. Brown got repaid for keeping Rudy around, because he lost some of those skyscrapers, and Rudy filled the bill. His 171 points do not tell the whole story of this valuable Eagle.

He was sensational, and was the most applauded of all Eagles.

Harvey Heartley, the Smithfield whiz kid on the court or in the classroom, was the Eagle's money player. He led the squad in rebounds, scored 441 points and after Captain Barrick was injured, served as the "field" general. Barrick has been a starter for four seasons. He, like Dudley, was a rare type player, but unlike Dudley's 5 ft. 9 in., Barrick was 6 ft. 1 in. He is best under pressure, owning a determined drive and a lay-up that is unstoppable. Never a leader in the scoring column, he did manage 139 points before missing the season's last four games with a leg injury. Big Charles Badger, a 6' 5" center, from Peekskill, N. Y., was the regular season's leading scorer. The once awkward looking center amassed a total of 453 points, and trailed only the 6 ft. 3 in. Heartley in rebounds.

After the holidays ended, a new face graced the N. C. Campus. James Cato. Standing only 5' 10", the recently discharged marine won himself a place in the hearts of the fans with an unorthodox one-hand set shot and brilliant all around floor play. He was chiefly used as a reserve but will be heavily counted on next year. Cato scored 103 points for the year. Others instrumental in the uphill climb were Clayborn Fields, a 6 ft. 5 in. center, who became the victim of a serious groin injury before the holidays, and never completely recovered; Ed Wheeler, the lackadaisical Brooklyn guard, who helped the Eagles tremendously out of the tight spots, and Richard Berry of Manhattan, N. Y. who was in and out of the NCC line-up in almost each game.

There were more; there always are, but the fact remains that the guiding light behind the Eagles was Floyd Brown. For his consistency in fielding good clubs, and his all round gentlemanly attitude. Brown was honored by his conference fellow coaches by being named the president of the Central Intercollegiate Basketball Coaches Association. Top seeded in the 1954-55 CIAA Tournament, his team was again knocked out by Morgan in the first round. But on the basis of the team's fine regular season's record, they were invited to represent the conference in the NAIA playoffs for the third straight year. Grambling of Louisiana, handed them a heartbreaking 71-63 defeat in the first round and the Eagles, with Dudley, Barrick, Bell and Heartley said goodbye for 1955.
